SECTION A - READING SKILLS
20 MARKS

I Read the passage given below:

10

- 1 Gold has fascinated humanity since the dawn of civilization. For the ancient Egyptians, it held deep religious significance, and they revered its beauty and durability. King Tutankhamen, for instance, was buried in a solid gold coffin over 3,300 years ago. Gold's remarkable qualities—its resistance to rust and corrosion—mean artefacts crafted from it have remained intact for centuries. Its malleability is another extraordinary feature; a single ounce, about the size of a sugar cube, can be beaten into a sheet covering nearly 100 square feet or stretched into a wire 50 miles long. Additionally, gold is a highly efficient conductor of electricity, surpassed only by copper and silver, making it vital to modern electronics.
- 2 The human desire to own gold has, however, often brought out the darker side of human nature. During their conquests, the Spanish looted temples, palaces, and graves, killing thousands in their relentless pursuit of the precious metal. In more recent times, South Africa's gold mines have relied heavily on underpaid black labourers, earning around 40 pounds a plus basic accommodation. These miners endure harsh working conditions, with approximately 400 fatalities reported annually.
- 3 Part of gold's allure lies in its rarity. Throughout history, only about 80,000 tons of gold have been mined—a quantity that could fit within a 60-foot square vault or a single super tanker. Great Britain pioneered the gold standard in 1717 when Sir Isaac Newton, as Master of the Mint, established a fixed price for gold. However, the large-scale discovery of gold in places like California (1848), Australia, and South Africa in the late 19th century revolutionized the global economy, providing sufficient reserves for trading nations to base their currencies on gold.
- 4 South Africa's golden era began in 1886 when an out-of-work prospector, George Harrison, discovered gold on a farm near what is now Johannesburg. Harrison received a modest reward of 12 pounds but tragically vanished shortly after, reportedly killed by a lion.
- 5 Despite modern investment trends, the majority—75 percent—of gold is still used to craft jewellery. Italy leads global consumption for this purpose, with Italian jewellers going so far as to burn wooden floors in workshops to recover minute gold particles. Historically, hoarding gold has been a common practice among the working class and peasants who distrust paper money. As playwright George Bernard Shaw aptly observed, when choosing between trusting governments or gold, the wise choice is gold.

(396 words)

- i Which of the following is NOT a property of gold? 1
 - A. It resists rust and corrosion.
 - B. It is a poor conductor of electricity.
 - C. It can be stretched into long wires.
 - D. It can be beaten into thin sheets.
- ii The ancient Egyptians value gold because _____. (Para-1) 1
- iii Discuss the implications of the phrase "the darker side of human nature" in relation to the pursuit of gold by the Spanish. What does this reveal about human behaviour and greed? Answer in approximately 40 words. (Para-2) 2
- iv The word 'malleability' (Paragraph-1) means- 1
 - A. capacity
 - B. rigidity
 - C. plasticity
 - D. validity
- v Excellent conductivity makes gold significant in the modern electronics industry. State whether the above statement is True or False. 1
- vi According to George Bernard Shaw, why is gold preferable to paper money? (Para-5) 1
 - A. Gold is easier to store.
 - B. Governments cannot be fully trusted.
 - C. Gold increases in value over time.
 - D. Gold can be used in jewellery and electronics.
- vii Considering George Bernard Shaw's quote about trusting governments versus gold, what might this suggest about societal attitudes towards currency and value? Answer in 40 words. 2
- viii _____ was one significant outcome of gold's discovery by George Harrison in 1886. (Para-5) 1

II Read the passage given below: 10

- I Keep your watch accurate. For some people, moving up the time on their watch will help them get up earlier. For others, they will remember that the time on the watch is wrong and will disregard it altogether. It may be helpful to set your watch just two minutes ahead instead of five or ten.

- 2 Keep a clock, phone, computer or anything that displays time in each room of your house. One of the easiest ways to run late is simply by not realising that the time is passing as quickly as it is.
- 3 Set all your clocks and watches at the same time. Don't be an optimist. Things usually take longer than what you'd expect, even without major delays. If you have a dinner appointment at 7:30 p.m., don't think you can work till 7 p.m., then take a bath, dress and arrive on time. Realistically, calculate the time you will take at each step and then add 10 minutes more to allow for unexpected delays, or you cannot get to your job in time.

- 4 Wake up when you are supposed to wake up. Don't hit the snooze button, keep on lying in bed, and watch TV at the very start of your day. Maybe you can even try setting your clock 10 minutes earlier than you need. If you have difficulty with this, move your alarm clock somewhere away from your bed; that way, you will have to get up to turn it off. Commit yourself to being 15 minutes early for everything. If you have to reach your place of work at 8:00, don't even tell yourself this. Just tell yourself (and everyone else who listens - but don't annoy them or make them think that they are late or early!) "I have to be at work at 7:45." If you do this, you will be on time even with little unforeseen delays. You will be on time even with a traffic jam.
